

Then, the Lady opened her arms and reflected her own light into the sun. The sun began to rapidly spin in the sky and looked like it was going to fall onto the crowd! Suddenly, the sun returned to its place in the sky, just as if nothing had happened! However, the whole crowd and Cova were completely dry, although it had been heavily raining just a few minutes before.